Miss Perkins Says General
Motors Agrees Not To Deal
With Flint GroupBy The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—Secretary Perkins said today occupation of Fisher Body plants in Flint, Mich., by sit-down strikers was the principal barrier to resumption of negotiations between the General Motors Corp. and the United Automobile Workers.

Before resuming her efforts to bring corporation officials and the union together, Miss Perkins told reporters that one of the main reasons for the failure of Gov. Murphy's proposed negotiations in Detroit to materialize was that he abducted Trooper Hammond at midnight Tuesday.

Caught in Stolen Car

Hammond and Trooper Sam Benoit had a stolen car occupied by Benoit and John H. Smith 29 alias DeBerto and decided to take the pair to headquarters for questioning in connection with the abduction of Fred Williams, a Detroit used car salesman who was killed in the seized automobile.

As the car started I jammed the gun into the officer's ribs and told him to slow down Benoit said.

Instead Hammond started to go faster so I slipped him over the eye with the butt of my pistol and told him to turn onto a side road.

Fire at Sinen

The other officer (Sinen) behind came up close I turned around and fired three shots. When I started shooting Hammond said he was going to ditch the car and I told him if he did I'd kill him sure.

The union then refused to evacuate the Flint plants.

Since Monday Miss Perkins said the corporation has agreed not to negotiate with any group other than the auto union for the time being. That leaves she said the occupation of the Flint plants the principal barrier in resumption of strike settlement negotiations.

May Meet Roosevelt

The strike appeared to be heading rapidly toward the White House despite renewed conferences between Secretary Perkins and each of the opposing forces.

Miss Perkins arranged another meeting with Alfred P. Sloan Jr., General Motors president after they failed yesterday to reach an agreement for resuming negotiations between the corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America.

Her nine hour conference with John L. Lewis whose Committee for Industrial Organization is backing the strike also was unproductive of a peace plan.

Want Strike Resumed

The labor secretary said in a statement last night.

Gov. Murphy (Michigan) and I are striving to bring about the resumption of negotiations on fair and honorable terms that will assure a proper and mutually satisfactory settlement.

We have hopes that negotiations may be resumed and satisfactorily concluded.

Many labor leaders expressed the belief the President would take a hand if an agreement were not reached soon.

Miss Perkins was represented as being especially interested in keeping Mr. Roosevelt out of the scrap because the conflict between Louis CIO and the American Federation of Labor is involved.

The Federation has urged General Motors not to sign a con tract with the auto union that would freeze A. F. of L craft unions out of the auto industry. The union is seeking recognition as the exclusive bargaining agency for all General Motors employees.

Roosevelt Favors Both Sides

Mr. Roosevelt desires the cooperation of both Lewis CIO unions and the A. F. of L in many projects of his second administration.

Two of Lewis' principal strike lieutenants—Homer Martin president of the auto workers and John E. Hopkins director of the CIO—have been summoned over to federal agents.

ELECTION HELD BY LOAN ASSOCIATION

Report on Business Also Made at Annual Meeting of Marion Company.

Announcement that a total of $15,000 had been paid in dividends in 1936 was made at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Marion Federal Savings & Loan association at the offices on East Center Street. Officials reported the institution is in the soundest condition in its twenty-five history with assets listed on Jan. 1 at $217,464.45.

Three of the seven directors of the association were reelected for three-year terms. They are Frank A. Huber, W. M. Harter and W. L. Morris. Other directors whose terms have not expired are Jim P. Probst, F. R. Geer, J. M. Strelak and Harry Smith. The directors will hold their organization meeting for election of officers of the association next Tuesday. Mr. Huber now is president.

R. E. Probst, secretary, said today the association has on hand reserves of more than $13,000 for protection of members. Part of this is under the new federal deposit insurance corporation. He also announced the association has a large amount of free capital for making reliable loans.

Present at yesterday's meeting were Dr. Warren C. Sawyer and O. E. Hammon, as judges and H. E. Fields and Miss Edith Elshing as clerks. Only a small number of the 124 stockholders attended.

was quoted as confessing. "Then got out and put one of the hand cuffs on his wrists. When I tried to get him out of the car he put up a fight and we rolled over on the ground. I could see he was getting the best of me. Then I fired during the scuffle and he got limp, ruffed his hands around the post of the mail box."

Denies Intentional Shooting

Benoit, bleeding profusely from cuts on his head, insisted to officers, however, that he did not realize he had shot Trooper Hammond until the officer's body went limp and he succeeded in shackling him to the post.

Later he took refuge in a barn to escape a freezing rain. Benoit said, and remain until darkness fell last night.

Then Benoit walked into a farm house near Federian, Mich., and at gunpoint forced Paul Bolog, 50, and his son, Steven, 16, to drive him in their light truck.

Another member of the Bolog family raised an alarm and four state troopers participated in the capture.

Benoit faced arraignment today. If convicted of first degree murder in the state courts, he faces a mandatory life sentence, the maximum penalty in Michigan.

State police said Benoit was armed with Trooper Hammond's service pistol and a second gun when captured.

Prosecutor Ready

quailed Benoit as saying he had committed an average of "three or four" holdups in various midwestern cities including Toledo and Cleveland.

Marion Officers Called on Hunt

State highway patrolmen, deputies from the sheriff's office and city police last night blocked state route 23, several miles north of the city, after it was reported over the police radio that a man answering the description of Alceo Benoit, was seen headed south from Perryville, O.

For nearly three hours, from 4:30 until after 7 o'clock the officers halted all southbound cars. They were called off the hunt when later radio reports told of Benoit's capture at Monroe, Mich., near the scene of the crime. Several hours later Michigan state police sent out a message of appreciation to all Ohio officers who joined in the dragnet to trap Benoit.

HOUSE SPEEDS WORK ON RFC EXTENSION

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The house began a post-inauguration spurt today by driving for a quick decision on extending the Reconstruction corporation's lending power.

The administration asked for a similar continuation of power to the Commodity Credit Corp., the electric farm and home authority and the export-import bank.

The Senate, which was in recess today, already has approved the RFC extension.

President Roosevelt asked $300,000,000 for relief until June 30, but a northwestern block has urged an increase to aid drought stricken families.

The wage earner should begin early to lay aside a fund for that "rainy day."

BISHOP GALLAGHER STRICKEN IN DETROIT

founder of the National Union for Social Justice.

"I have lost the closest friend outside of my family," was the priest's only comment after learning of his superior's death.

Father Coughlin and that four days ago Bishop Gallagher visited him. At that time the priest said, the bishop complained of the throat ailment. Father Coughlin said that was the last time he saw Bishop Gallagher. The prelate was taken to the hospital so unexpectedly that Father Coughlin had no time to go there.

Bishop was known as one of the "two bishops." The other was Bishop Joseph Schrembs of Cleveland. The two were intimates for years having often together in the Grand Rapids diocese.

When Bishop Gallagher made a trip to the Vatican about six months ago he denied repeatedly that he had any connection with the activities of Father Coughlin, either over the radio or in connection with the National Union.

Bishop Gallagher and Father Coughlin were close friends and the priest frequently defended the priest when he was censured for his utterances. But the bishop revealed that he told the priest his language had been too strong when Coughlin called President Roosevelt, "a liar" in a Cleveland speech.

Bishop Gallagher himself stated before the election last November that he favored the reelection of President Roosevelt.

The bishop was born in Auburn, Mich., Nov. 18, 1864. He studied at Windsor, Ont., and abroad and was ordained at Bratislava, Austria, in 1902. He served as parish priest in several Michigan communities upon his return to the United States and rose step by step until he became bishop of Detroit in 1918.

from Detroit to confer with their chief.

The number of idle employees of the corporation rose to 135,000 with additional plant closings. The plants which shut down yesterday were the Buick at Flint, Mich.; the Fisher Body at Baltimore, and the export division of Chevrolet at Bloomfield, N. J.

The Baltimore Chevrolet factory was to close today. The closings were attributed to lack of materials from other units. Already closed due to the extensive strike.

A U. A. W. A. strike in an independent part factory at Detroit, the Bohn Aluminum company's No. 3, was settled late yesterday and its 500 employees will return to duty Monday at increased wages.

The agreement provided for a minimum hourly wage of 65 cents for men and 50 cents for women, reducing of a discharged worker and no discrimination against union members. The plant manufactures parts for the Ford Motor company.

As a result of the settlement, the Lincoln-Zephyr division of Ford decided to work today employees who had been laid off because of a shortage of parts.

With the Buick shutdown at Flint some 37,000 General Motors employees were idle there.

as far as 11 miles in Lake Wissahickon Wind.

The level along the Schoharie river without early today the effects of a violent wind storm. Engineers had feared that a heavy wind might cause an already weakened portion to collapse.

Throughout the great valley found water rising during the night caused a further rise in that river. Portsmouth city officials frankly regarded the situation as serious.

They had been released somewhat late yesterday by a resolution in the case of the Ohio, but the increase the morning caused renewed anxiety.

They were prepared to give adequate warning, however, if the flood waters threatened to top the barriers.

Great Dike Tomorrow

A flood crest, expected today, is not due now before tomorrow because of the nearly rains through-out the watershed district.

Except for one road, Portsmouth was cut off by high waters from highway communication for any distance.

Flood waters ran three and four feet deep in Woodlawn and Larchdale near here and in Greenup, Fullerton and South Portsmouth, Ky., across the Ohio river.

Threat of Serious Flood Returns Here

A new wave of rainfall last night and this morning brought a new grip of flood waters over Marion county today.

The Scioto river has been at flood stage or higher at LaRue and Prospect almost continuously for four weeks and both communities today saw possibilities of river levels approaching those of last week, which were the highest in several years.

The government weather forecast of rain and colder tonight and Friday, probably changing to snow Friday, brought the possibility that the arrival of cold weather would check the flood mixture.

The state highway patrolman at the Marion stationhouse were called to Portsmouth this morning for duty in that flood-stricken area where a $1,000,000 wall protecting the city is threatened. The patrolmen here are D. D. Nicholas and W. H. Hansen. They left shortly before noon with Owen Clark, patrolman from Findlay.

Heavy January Rain

A review of Marion weather records show 5.16 inches of rain has fallen in the last seven days. It's the most rain in the last seven days.

In Marion, rainfall last night and this morning measured 1.64 inches. The rain fell in a period of moderate temperatures, the mercury ranging from a high of 45 and a low of 33.

SIX DEBATES BOOKED FOR HARDING TEAMS

Bucyrus, W. Ohio Jan. 27
Two Contests on Program for Marion.

Debates have been scheduled for the Harding High School students, with a Marysville team and a Marion team. Only two will be held, according to the school officials.

The first debate will be on Jan. 27. The Marysville team goes over the floor of the home of Fred C. Clegg, 2 or 3, with debate on from Galion.

The Marion team will go to Galion.

The Sunday night meeting at the Harding afternoon session will be held in Marion, with a two-speaker team on Feb. 17. Hardin County will have two speaker teams on Feb. 24, and five teams will go to Marion for a debate on Feb. 25.

The question which most high school students will debate is the one on which they are preparing to go to the state fair, that all electric power should be owned and operated by the government.

Rabbit's Roving Tendency is Fictional, Says Expert

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—An outstanding expert on wildlife threw grave doubt today on the truth of story-book tales about the travels of Peter rabbit.

In fact, declared Lawrence E. Hicks, director of the Ohio wildlife research station, Peter and his relatives seldom travel at all, and many bunnies are born, spend their entire lives, and die within an area no more than a quarter of a mile square.

"Rabbits are probably the most sedentary of animals," said Hicks, one of the country's best informed men on the habits of the cottontail.

"Hundreds of them regard 100 yards from our stations were found to have spent their lives within a few easy hops of home cabbage patch or other feeding ground.

"They don't travel because it seems they have to do so—and because they are usually born in an area selected by their mothers because it had everything necessary for a comfortable, easy rabbit life."

The victory of the cottontail over the hare in that famous race of "habitual" fiction was no surprise to Hicks. He expects the兔子 to win.

"The story says the rabbit went to sleep and the tortoise paddled on to an easy victory," he said. "It's more likely that Mr. rabbit just refused to budge from his own little world—that field of thistles in which he was born—and the tortoise won in a walk."

Hicks and his associates have captured hundreds of Ohio rabbits, isolated numbered chips to their ears, then released them. The same rabbits have been caught time and again—but always within small, usually circular areas.

"There's one reason a rabbit runs in a circle when scared by a hunter," Hicks said. "It is not trying to escape a shot, nor a pursuing dog, so much as to remain within the small area which is its home."

Squirrels are close seconds to rabbits among nature's sedentary animals, those that "sit tight" with little wandering about—said the wildlife expert.

Halitosis.

In these days, whistling breath is universally known as "halitosis." It is a common affliction. If we believe the advertisements, practically everyone is numbered among the victims. It is not quite so bad as that, but the condition is altogether too prevalent.

Contrary to a common belief, halitosis is not always caused by defective mouth hygiene. It is true that man, canines can be traced to bad teeth and infected gums, as well as the decomposition of food between the teeth and under the gums. Faulty plate work and other dental defects are other causative factors. But it may also be produced by disease of the tonsils or by a constantly furred tongue carrying an amazing quantity of decomposed footmarks and bacteria.

This annoying symptom is often the result of some upset in the alimentary canal. For this reason, in order to determine the actual cause of halitosis, a thorough examination must be made. The digestive tract, beginning at the mouth and extending to the rectum, must be investigated.

Halitosis may be a sign of some serious disturbance in the gut, in phlegm or lungs. It is wise in every case to accept it as a sign of some disorder, perhaps of importance. It is a mistake to look upon it as a trivial matter.

The normal breath has been described as one having a very faint odor resembling blooming chestnuts. Any change from this hints at something abnormal. As I have indicated, the real cause may be found at a lower level than the mouth. To locate it and to determine the exact location of the cause, it may be necessary to have special x-ray examinations.

Excessive fermentation of food and digestion, constipation and other digestive disturbances are possible factors in the production of halitosis and must not be overlooked. Merely because smokers seem to be more prone to halitosis than those who do not smoke, the symptoms must not be blamed solely upon the use of tobacco. Among smokers, as among others, it is often the result of hyperactivity of irritation of the lining of the stomach.

Often halitosis is brought about by faulty eating habits and improper diet. Occasionally, certain constitutional disorders may have something to do with the bad breath. It may be the only sign of some internal disorder.

In any event, take pains to find out what is wrong. When its cause is actually located and removed, the general health and vigor will be promoted.

GOUTRE NOT A DISEASE

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—It has been brought to light by scientific research that goitre is not a disease and is not to be treated as such. Dr. A. A. Rock, a prominent goitre specialist for over 30 years, perfected a different method of treatment which has proven highly successful. He opposed needless operations. Dr. A. A. Rock Products have published a copyrighted book at their own expense which tells about goitre and this treatment and will send this book free to anyone interested. Write today to Dr. A. A. ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

to him, were you not?" asked the baroness.
"Not quite," answered Anne dryly.
"But you were close friends. You were together a great deal. I should think there must be many things about his affairs that you can tell them. And he was dining with you only last night. I saw him leave Madge's with you and go to the studio."

"Yes," answered Bigelow. "Are you wide awake?"

"No," answered Karsanakoff. "I am not. Come to tea. Now, I can not talk at all. I have just had my coffee and looked at the front pages of the newspapers."

He realized she meant him to know that she had seen the report of Vronski's death and understood that their plan had succeeded.

"I'm afraid I can't come to tea, he answered regretfully. "But I was wondering if you could spare me your maid for an hour or two."

"My maid?" she repeated curiously.

To clear up the mess here after last night's party. The floor especially ought to be seen to without further delay."

"But of course—your lovely polished floor!" she cried quickly. "I will send her at once in a car with instructions. Will you be there to let her in?"

"Yes," answered Bigelow. "Thanks."

"But it is nothing," Karsanakoff assured him. "Goodby."

Mariushka Proves Discreet

He looked out of the window, wondering how long it would take the woman to get there. Then, it occurred to him that he might be seen, so he left the window and walked the floor impatiently, smoking cigarettes. The phone rang, but he was afraid to answer it as he could think of no good excuse to give for his presence there, and after a trying two minutes, it stopped. Then, eventually, Mariushka knocked at the door.

"Thank heaven," he cried, closing the door behind her. She was looking about at the disordered studio with a curious expression in her dark eyes. Bigelow wondered just how much of the truth Karsanakoff had told her.

"This is the part of the floor that wants cleaning," he said, indicating the spot where Vronski had fallen.

Mariushka looked at it. "Thank you," she said.

"And there are some marks in the cupboard that will have to be removed."

She nodded, glancing at the cupboard. "Madame said there would be something to destroy, also."

"No, I'm taking care of that," answered Bigelow, after an instant's hesitation. He was afraid if she washed the towel she might not make a good enough job of it and if she attempted to burn it, the smell might be noticed outside the apartment. Besides, that towel was too incriminating a piece of evidence to let out of his own hands. Not that he distrusted Mariushka. But one could not take too many precautions. "Will it be all right if I leave you alone here?" he asked.

"Yes," said Mariushka.

"If anyone comes to question you—?"

"I speak no English," she interrupted grimly. "Have no fear. From me no one will learn anything." Meeting her glance, he believed her.

"Good. Don't let anyone in if you can avoid it and be sure to lock the door after you when you go. It is a spring lock that locks itself, but you must make sure the door is properly closed."

"Yes," said Mariushka.

Bigelow took up his package and departed...

He drove next to East 6th street where Austrelitz had a small house. He had built it to suit his own peculiar requirements. On the right, as you entered, there was a comfortably furnished waiting room with up-to-date periodicals about and plenty of ash trays. Opposite, across the hall, was the doctor's consulting room. In the rear, running the width of the house, was a perfectly equipped model surgery. On the second story, the doctor had his living and sleeping quarters and on the floor above that, the servants were housed.

A Filipina boy—very neat and well-groomed looking in his white house clothes—opened the door to Bigelow and presently ushered him up the stairs and into the sunny sitting room where the doctor was having a belated breakfast. His feet were thrust into black sandals and he had a heavily embroidered black and gold Japanese robe over his white silk pajamas.

"Another cup, Felipe," he said as he nodded at Bigelow.

Dividing Lines Vanishing

Extension of public library facilities to villages of Marion county is a development of more than ordinary importance. The value of a library to a community can not be overestimated and residents of villages where this addition to public service is being established have reason to rejoice.

LaRue was the first place in the county outside Marion to get a library and to day one is being opened in Prospect. Beyond doubt other villages will take the example later.

Steadily the gap between the advantages of living in a city and conditions in smaller communities is being closed and development of the public library movement is one of the moves in that direction. Preceding this came extension of gas and electric service to farm and village homes and of course automobile and radio have been major factors in establishing advantages and conveniences on a general basis. Long ago centralized schools eliminated the educational disadvantages of rural sections and villages and other advancements might be mentioned as having marked the modern trend making these localities to city standards.

There still remain differences, some of which probably never will be eliminated because of unalterable natural conditions. Some of these make life in the smaller communities more desirable others favor the city but viewed generally there remains but a fine dividing line between village, town and city life and along with this has come a closer relationship and more mutual understanding between the peoples of those communities. It is one of the really great benefits derived from the modern trend.

Power Policy

Dr Arthur D. Morgan's proposal to create a federal power policy probably was made with President Roosevelt's approval. While it's possible Dr Morgan may be forced out of FPA by power extremists seeking immediate public ownership, he still has the President's confidence, is far as anyone knows. Mr Roosevelt seemed to verify existence of a confidential relationship by naming a power policy commission without delay.

The point which should not be missed about the Morgan proposal is its nature at the view of a man who is himself an extremist. Dr Morgan believes in eventual public ownership of the electric power industry. He understands however that the method of achieving public ownership must be harmonized with existing public principles lest in their charge of direction in this opinion government is not ready yet to take over any large scale business. There is first a job of public education to be done, he believes.

It would be excellent for proponents of public ownership if the issue could be restricted to the means by which public ownership is to be brought about. They will not have that privilege however. The issue is broader than that. There still are a great many persons who are not willing to concede that public ownership is either desirable or inevitable. They will resent—and properly—any inference that their side of the case no longer is entitled to a hearing.

The federal government should have a clearly stated power policy. Electric power utilities should know where they stand and what they can expect. If it is public ownership either by sudden death or slow starvation that fact should be made plain. President Roosevelt's promptness in appointing a power commission indicates he is thinking in the same direction.

Early Flood Peril

The rain comes and the freezing weather is too far behind.

Millions of gallons of water go in to southward to the Ohio river which swollen with its load was at flood stage during all of its 1,000 mile length the day.

Such a situation isn't expected in the next usually a month of continuous freezing. Early flood will be followed in habitants of the Ohio valley to worse than usual.

However this may be some comfort even in a January flood. A year ago the Ohio flood was blamed partially on the melting of great quantity of snow in a spring thus. Unless here complete reversal of weather soon the big thaw of 1937 shouldn't send down more than a trickle into the Ohio next week.

President Holds Unique Place

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1937 by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON Jan 21 Only in one instance has a story been told the like of which President Franklin D. Roosevelt enjoyed yesterday, on inauguration day, namely to take the oath of office in the formal inauguration cere monies.

Two more Presidents—Theodore Roosevelt and Calvin Coolidge, making two in all had until yesterday taken it again after the taking of their respective oaths, but their initial inaugurations were informal affairs or were held after the death of a predecessor.

The presidents who had served a full four-year term when inaugurated formal a second time were Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Lincoln, Grant, Cleveland, McKinley and Wilson. It is interesting to note that with respect to the latter men who took the oath on a second occasion only two Theodore Roosevelt and Lincoln, Grant were younger than Franklin Roosevelt.

General Grant was 59 when inaugurated the second time and Theodore Roosevelt was 48. Four years ago Franklin Roosevelt was 51 and though his birthday does not occur until January 30, but the inauguration date is this year moved up from the usual March 4 date, he will go down in history as having been inaugurated a second time at the age of 51 marking a ten days of being 52.

Mr. Roosevelt's inauguration is an atmosphere hardly differing from that of several late days when fiscal important events. Four years ago a bank crisis was already under way and Mr. Roosevelt, by his dramatic action won the plaudits of people of all classes.

Today another crisis is in the making—a big social and economic crisis in which capital and labor probably will reach the climax of their long struggle. It was in Michigan that the last crisis on the eve of inauguration brought on a national emergency and it is in Michigan again that all down revolution called by some instruction and resolution because properly is acted in defense of court in

Signs of Strategy

PLANS of intention to turn railroads into public ownership do not dispel notion that public ownership is the objective of an organized campaign among powerful men in Washington. There are good reasons to believe that advocates of public ownership are not going to wait until the railroad project finds drops into their laps but rather are trying to shake it loose from the branch.

The strategy behind proposed legislation for a six-day law is discussed in the current issue of Hallway Age. There is very much more involved than merely an increase in railway wages and expenses, the magazine says.

Congress can not under decisions of the supreme court, Hallway Age explains pass legislation regulating hours of work and wages in most other industries because they are not engaged in interstate commerce. But it is unusual because railroads are engaged in interstate commerce that it can constitutionally regulate working hours and wages on them in any way it pleases. There is good reason for apprehending that the establishment of a six-day law at eight hours pay on the railways would bankrupt them and drive them into government ownership and most of the labor leaders who advocate this legislation also advocate government ownership of railroads.

The explanation continues:

Under normal conditions the railroads directly and indirectly buy about $2,000,000,000 annually of equipment materials and fuel from the manufacturing mining and other industries. Under government ownership the government would become the buyer for the railroads and would have constitutional power to control every industry selling to the railroads by legislation similar to the existing Woolsey-Hays Act either to give its employees a six day law at eight hours pay or force orders from the railroads.

But whatever abstract principle one uses to interpret the election returns the mandate is clearly an exhortation to Mr. Roosevelt to profit by the mistakes of the past and move the country forward during the second term to higher levels of economic gain than in the first term. Beyond all this, it was a mandate to give the country a chance to earn the huge taxes that are needed nowadays to support a government which whether or not we agree with that concept of the true function of government has become a huge welfare agency superseding the several states and cities in the biggest humanitarian experiment ever undertaken in a democracy anywhere on earth.

Story of The Popes

History Tells of Kings and Emperors Contributing To Early Advancement of Christianity in Europe

FOUNDING THE PAPACY

Christ surrenders the keys to Peter—symbolizing the delegation of the church's leadership to the apostle. Peter, says Catholic doctrine, was the first of the popes. Courtesy New York public library picture collection.

CROWNING OF CHARLEMAGNE

The rush of rulers to align themselves with the church was climaxed in 800 A. D. when Pope Leo III crowned Charlemagne emperor of the Holy Roman empire. This scene is from a painting by Chappel. (Courtesy New York public library picture collection.)

the papacy as the supreme spiritual power.

Powerful was the force of excommunication—the world still recalls the picture of Emperor Henry IV, stripped of his ermine and jewels, standing barefoot in the snow of Canossa, in 1077, till Pope Gregory VII designed to receive his plea of submission.

Gold, jewels and land went to the church in profusion, contributed by the faithful of many countries. Throughout western Europe the common people saw in the vast papal power a bulwark against the tyranny of kings.

Many Lead Reforms

But the aggrandizement of the Catholic church brought with it special problems, and many popes, among the greatest who have sat on Peter's throne, devoted their reigns to reform.

Thus, from simple beginnings—

SCHOOLS ARRANGE NIGHT SHOP CLASS

Hudson Announces Course in Mechanics for Factory Employees.

Night school classes in machine shop techniques for adults will probably start next week Superintendent C. A. Hudson announced today. The decision to inaugurate the classes followed several inquiries from industrial employees, he said. The classes will be open to any adult worker.

All interested persons will meet with L. H. Rieker, member of the city school teaching staff, tomorrow night at 7 o'clock at the Harding High school shop to discuss arrangements for the classes. To date 20 persons have indicated they will take the course which will last for 10 weeks.

The classes will be held two nights each week for two hours. The fee for the 10-week course has been tentatively set at $2. The instruction will be given by Mr.

Rieker, who lives at 305 Powhatan street, and other members of the Harding vocational staff.

Mr. Rieker conducted a similar class several years ago for adults interested in perfecting their knowledge of shop machinery and its operation.

PRAISE VACATIONS AS LONGEVITY AID

LONDON — According to a report just issued by the British insurance companies, which have conducted an investigation into the lives of 2,000,000 insured people, the average life-span of Britons of this present generation is at least four years longer than that of their grandparents. By 1944, the lifespan will be prolonged by another five years.

The annual two weeks' holiday is one of the greatest contributory reasons why people of today are living longer, according to medical opinion.

"People who dispense with their annual summer holiday are asking for a nervous breakdown and a shorter life," says a specialist. "Those who reduce by drastic methods are asking for the same thing."

THREE ACCIDENT SUITS SETTLED

Trial Proceedings in Common Pleas Court Ended.

Three suits asking a total judgment of $15,197 against James Chambers in a result of an automobile accident Oct. 18, 1934 were settled out of court today, attorney H. L. Miller of Marion, Judge Lee S. Young. Trial of one of the actions that of Allan Anderson was started yesterday before a jury.

A court opened this morning. The plaintiff's attorney, Garhart Warren & Garhart and the defense at torneys Paul D. Smith of Marion and John Ward of Columbus are named as elements of the three actions.

The other suits were filed by Mrs. Ruth Smith wife of the driver of one of the cars and by Mrs. Jaye Anderson wife of Allan Anderson. The accident is alleged to have occurred at Prospect road and Maplewood club drive south of Marion. The plaintiff claimed the Chambers auto had stalled in the middle of P. Ute 4 and that its lights were not visible.

Yesterday six witnesses were called for the plaintiff and three for the defense.

SOIL CONSERVATION MEETINGS CONTINUE

Elections in Three More Townships Held To Name Committeemen

Results of elections of committeemen for three more townships were announced today by County Agent S. L. Anderson who is in charge of the 100% federal soil conservation program. The elections were held at township meetings earlier this week as follows:

Walter L. G. Smith, chairman; H. O. E. g. vice chairman; J. H. Trow and O. T. Helby, members.

Frank Lewis Anderson, chairman; Bill St. John, vice chairman; Vern Carter and Ralph Rose, members.

Bill Rose, Harry A. Hall, chairman; George Hodges, vice chairman; and George E. Gledhill and Robert D. Carpenter, members.

Many more township meetings yesterday afternoon at the grammar school. Tonight the meetings will continue at the school buildings Marion, etc., Kent, the Chillicothe schoolhouse all at 7:30 p.m.

Flush Kidneys of Acid and Poisons

Gain in Health and Stop Getting Up Nights

When kidneys are sluggish they become weak—the bladder is irritated—often passage is scanty and smarts and burns; sleep is restless and nights' visits to the bathroom are frequent.

The right cure here lies and is inexpensive. To stop this trouble and restore healthy action to kidneys and bladder is to get GOLD MEDAL Aspirin Oil Capsules and take as directed—you won't be disappointed.

But be sure and get GOLD MEDAL Aspirin Oil Capsules—the original and genuine—brought from Holland in Holland—a grand kidney stimulant and diuretic. Remember also that other symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble are backache, leg cramps, puffy eyes, moist palms and nervousness—Ad.

How to Ease a Cold Quickly

Get Quick-Acting, Quick-Dissolving
Bayer Aspirin. Take 2 Tablets

The modern way to ease a cold in this era of Bayer Aspirin tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on. Then repeat, if necessary, according to instructions in the box.

At the same time, if you have a sore throat, crush and dissolve three BAYER tablets in one third glass of water. And gargle with this mixture twice.

The Bayer Aspirin you take internally will act to combat the fever and pains which usually accompany colds. The gargle will provide almost instant relief from rawness and pain acting like a local anesthetic on the irritated membranes of your throat.

Try this way. Your doctor we know will endorse it. For it is a quick, effective means of combating a cold. Ask for Bayer Aspirin by the full name at your druggist's—not for "aspirin" alone.

Busy Week-End Awaits City and County School Cagers

HARDING TO PLAY AT TIFFIN SATURDAY; ST. MARY GAME HERE

Parochial Cagers To Meet Fostoria St. Wendelin, Rural Teams To See Action

This week's basketball schedule will find Harding High school teams in action to a far-out court. St. Mary parochial cagers busy at the Marion team Shovel gym maximum teams of two city junior high schools clashing and county league games in going on now, and a host of district teams in action.

For the home schedule Friday night Marion fans will be offered the St. Mary clash with Fostoria St. Wendelin on the Shovel court and a pair of games matching teams from Vernon Heights and Edison Junior High schools on the latter floor. County league contests Friday will find Green Camp at LaRue Kirkpatrick at Clarendon Waldo at Martel Caldena at Pleasant Moral at Prospect.

President to Travel

Cochrane D. Bohayes Harding High President Edie in North Central Ohio league competition, will travel to Tiffin Saturday night, to meet the strong Junior Order Home team. Both the varsity and reserve teams will make the trip to Tiffin and the preliminary game on the Seneca county court will begin shortly after 7 o'clock.

A heavy attendance is anticipated for the St. Mary St. Wendelin clash which is the Kelly-cagers third appearance on the home floor this season. After a pair of games last week one at Lima St. Rose and the other on the Pleasant Township High school court, the Marion Parochial quidell settled down to the usual practice routine in preparation for St. Wendelin invasion. The visiting cage combine is a member of the League of Six Nations and has earned an enviable reputation in previous seasons.

To Finish First Round

The game on the Edison floor Friday night will mark the completion of the first round of the city junior high school schedule. Edison's record of being undefeated will be at stake when Vernon Heights champions of the loop last season invade the West End gymnasium. In the season opening games Edison's varsity scored a 16 to 12 victory over Central cagers and in the second game Central edged Vernon 20 to 26.

Friday night will find all of the N.C.O. teams except Harding busy in hoop encounters. Bucyrus will invade the lair of the Mansfield Tiger Ashland will visit Mt. Vernon and the Shelby Whippets will entertain Galion. Games in the district will offer a diversified and interesting bill-of-fare to basketball enthusiasts. Among the contests set for Friday night are Wykoh at Richwood Broadway at New California Mt. Gilead at Marengo Upper Sandusky at Cedar Hill, Cardington at Edison, Sparta at Chesterville and Orange at Ashley.

In addition to Harding's Saturday night game at Tiffin, Fredericksburg will be visiting Mt. Gilead, Sparta invading Sunbury and Upper Sandusky entwining Van Wert.

BROWNS TRIMMED TRIBE IN PLAYER TRADE, TRAYNOR SAYS

Asserts Indians Came Out Second Best in Three-Man Swap Involving Vosmik

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS Jan 21 — The St. Louis Browns came away out on top in the recent player swap with the Cleveland Indians. Harold (Pie) Traynor manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates had today.

The Browns traded Julius Solters, Ivy Andrews, and Lynn Lary for the Indians' Oral Hyde, brand Joe Vosmik and Bill Knickerbocker.

"Those boys at St. Louis knew what they were doing," said while a guest of the Indiana house of representatives.

Vosmik? "He wants to bat last year but you can look for a big year in 1937. The records show he has a great year every other season," the Pirate chieftain explained.

Hildebrand? "Everyone thinks Hildebrand is a potential 20-game winner, maybe the change in at most here will do him good."

Knickerbocker? "A swell ball player," Traynor said. Knickerbocker's midseason season last year probably could be traced to an appendicitis operation.

Solters, Andrews and Lary good ball players but the Indians came out second best.

Asked if he would like to visit the state senate, Traynor answered, "If it's the Washington Senators. I'm not so crazy about it because I've had a lot of experience with them. If it's the Indiana senators I'll take a chance with them."

Traynor and State Senator Vic Altrichter were members of the Pittsburgh team that had to go seven games before licking the Washington Senators in the 1926 world series.

Wesley Perrell hurler for the Boston Red Sox is defending the Paul Crowley Trophy. Eighteen holes will be played daily with finals on Sunday.

The players from both major and minor leagues include two brother combinations, Wes and Rick Parcell of the Boston Red Sox and Paul and Lloyd Water of Pittsburgh.

Among the entries are Lloyd Epp and Willie Hudlin, Cleveland pitchers and Paul Derringer of Cincinnati.

APPLING, WHITE SOX SPAR ABOUT SALARY

By The Associated Press CHICAGO Jan 21—Friday evening Eddie Appeling, major league batting champion in 1936 has a salary in dispute coming owner J. Louis Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox agrees but they are having a little game getting together on the size.

Appeling who played shortstop and topped both major leagues in hitting with a .388 average has made his asking price $20,000 for 1937. He received about $12,000 last year. Comiskey thinks a contract calling for $10,000 and a bonus clause which might raise the figure to $17,500 is about right.

Youth in America Has World's Best Opportunities in Sports

By BILL DILLON GRAHAM
WASHINGTON, Jan 21 — The only the wealthy can afford to play land for athletic fields in American youngsters from a sports plentiful in America, scarce and expensive in many other lands.

Government Funds Help

The United States government, through the works progress administration and other agencies has spent millions of dollars in recent years providing parks and playgrounds.

Other countries are adopting the American attitude toward sports, however. Some, including Germany, Italy and Russia have sport bureaus and are spending government funds on athletic fields.

Sporting equipment costs less in virtually any other country. Many nations import sporting goods and prices are high.

Lucrative Tours Attracting Net Stars into Pro Ranks of Game; Budge Next

Success of Perry-Vines Troupe May Alter Future of Game.

By MERRILL MERRIFIELD
Illustrated News Writer

NEW YORK. The enthusiasm which has been kindled by the professional tennis troupe whose members are Fred Perry and Ellsworth Vines foreshadows a revolution in the future of the game.

Perry, who was the one player most popular among amateurs on an amateur basis last year, then the tide turned to that of professionalism with the arrival of Bill Tilden, former champion player of the year, barnstorming about the country and being considered a professional tennis before that of any top men players had even come along until Tilden made his mark. Suzanne Lenglen was another player to go professional. The former French star surrendered to the lure of a $10,000 a week tour to the U.S. in 1926. She was a member of a troupe which included Vincent Richards and Edward Kotwitz.

Tilden Started Trend

Professional tennis has been in Europe for some time, however, and the game had been played on a successful basis by such stars as Raoul Nahas of Germany and Karel Kozluk, who was regarded as the greatest of them amateur or professional.

In 1921, though, when Tilden entered the amateur ranks, the professional tennis game came into its own. On tour of the United States playing Richards and appearing alone with a half dozen other luminaries, the Tilden maneuver grossed $150,000. Receipts for the year were $86,000 and for 1922, $62,000.

Another stimulus to the pro net game came in 1924 when the incomparable Ellsworth Vines, then ranking No. 1 amateur player of the world, signed on the dotted line. That first year of his pro regional career, Vines, playing against the veteran Tilden, was responsible for gate receipts of $120,000 in a nation-wide tour.

Perry-Vines Expect $100,000

Other members of the Vines-Tilden troupe were George Lott, Lester Steffen and Bruce Barnes. The box office take last year dropped off to $168,000, but it is expected that the current tour of Perry and Vines will gross more than $300,000.

These lucrative figures forecast possible drastic changes in the sport of tennis, since the rewards in prospect for the top-ranking players in the game will probably result in their description as fast as they come to the top.

Donald Budge, now apparently well on his way toward succeeding Perry as the No. 1 player of the world, will probably turn pro next year.

All of which comes as something of a shock to veterans of the game which has been jealously maintained as an amateur sport for years.

VINES TRAILING BY ONE GAME FOLLOWING 7TH TILT WITH PERRY

Pros Play Before 3,167 Customers at Buffalo; Go To Philadelphia Friday.

By The Associated Press
BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 21.—The inability of Ellsworth Vines to make his booming service click left him trailing Fred Perry today by one match after their seventh meeting.

Vines lost to the British player, 4-6, 2-6, before 3,167 east customers in Broadway auditorium last night.

Perry, who lost three straight to Vines, forced the Californian into numerous errors and several wild streaks.

Occasionally Vines' hard first service found fair territory and Perry failed to get the ball back four times in a single game. But the frequent necessity of making his second service good compelled Vines to ease up.

Bruce Barnes, veteran Texas pro, defeated George Lott, 6-1, 7-5, and in the doubles Vines and Barnes defeated Perry and Lott, 6-4, 6-3.

Perry and Vines meet again in Philadelphia Friday night.

GRANGERS TO GIVE PLAY

special to The Star
KENTON, O., Jan. 21—Washington Grange players today prepared for their winter play exchange season by selecting a three-part comedy, "Sound Your Horn," which will be first presented in the Dola Farmers' Institute, Feb. 11, and then be on the exchange program with Painter Creek and McDonald Granges the following week.

The fight game affords an another all-powerful official whose judgment often decides which way a game will go. The old cry of "kill the umpire" is still a familiar yell in the various ball parks, which is evidence enough that baseball's officials are not infallible, either.

Hitting the post interference rule which enables officials to penalize teams so freely, Chet averred that referees are often unconsciously prejudiced by their preconceived notions as to the better team, and instinctively favor their choice when making decisions. This raises the interesting question of how big a part the judgment of officials plays in various sports.

The fight game affords an

A-No. 1 example of a sport in which the official is really king. Barring a knockout, the verdict as to the winner and loser of every fight is dependent on the very fallible judgment of the ring officials, judges and referees.

You probably will have difficulty in recalling a single fight card in which there wasn't dissension over the verdict rendered in at least one of the bouts of the night.

MID-YEAR EXAMS START AT HARDING

Instructors Test Knowledge of Pupils on Work of First Semester

Harding High school pupils are putting down on paper what they think they know and hoping the answers are correct, now that mid-year examinations are underway.

Examinations started Wednesday and will be finished Friday afternoon. Pupils with an "A" average who were not absent more than 10 days or who did not have an unexcused absence were excused from the examinations.

Yesterday's examinations were English I and II, English literature, American literature, ancient history, modern history, American history, chemistry and world history.

Today pencils were being chewed over tests in plane and solid geometry, commercial law, physics, domestic arts, related arts, Caesar Cicerio, Virgil, bookkeeping I and II, shop mathematics, higher arithmetic, journalism, biology and public speaking.

Friday morning there will be examinations in French III and IV, geography and economics and in the afternoon there will be tests in shop practice and special examinations for pupils with more than three examinations in one day.

LEE STREET CHURCH SUPPER DATE SET

COLUMBUS COMPANY BRINGS SUIT HERE

Bank Ohio Names School Board in Suits Action

The Bank Ohio Securities Co. of Columbus in its trial, brought suit in coroner's court against the Marion city board of education and the National City Bank & Trust Co. for judgment of $115,000 in interest allegedly on when bonds once held by the company.

In a petition, the Columbus company said it held 10 bonds of the national bank holding $1,000 each which were due March 1, 1937. The face value of the bonds was paid June 1, 1938 by the bank.

It is asserted that the first payment was made June 1, 1938 by the bank.

Frank F. Gergenauer, Clerk of the school board said the delay in paying had come as a result of interest in reducing tax money from the county. He said he was not certain whether or not the company had requested the interest in previous letters so formal notice has been given by the board of the suit and no action will be taken until then.

The Columbus company represented by Johnston & Peterson of Columbus is bringing the action on behalf of itself and other named persons similarly situated in regard to the bonds.

NEW WARNING SIGNS PLACED AT SCHOOL

Traffic Markers Placed by Service Department Near Glenwood Building

Five school warning signs purchased by the city service department were placed in use in the vicinity of the Glenwood school this week. J. V. Stuh safety service director announced today.

Signs which embody two types of lettering were obtained to determine what type of a standard sign would be satisfactory for marking school zones in the city.

The signs placed in use at Glenwood are 18 by 24 inches with black letters on a bright yellow background. If they prove satisfactory others may be purchased later for school zones in other sections of the city. Mr. Ruth said.

At the present time most of the school zones are marked by the school signs placed in the center of the street.

Often Mr. Ruth pointed out it is necessary to place signs some distance from the school which makes the movable street signs impractical from the point that they cannot be taken into the school each night.

The signs near the Glenwood school are permanent being attached to heavy wood posts set in the ground.

Girl Scout Leaders Hear Talk by Miss Schroeder

The duty of Girl Scout leaders with the organization in the state is to teach what their program is.

Miss Schroeder of the national Girl Scout staff told a group of leaders and council members at the first of a series of six sessions last night at the Marion headquarters of the Girl Scouts of America.

Miss Schroeder urged leaders to look for indications of actual interest among the girls and to export the girl to interests of the Girl Scout movement based on the interest of the girl.

Informal talks and interviews last night at the Marion headquarters of the Girl Scouts of America.

With girls suggested as one way in which the leader can gain the confidence of girls around her in the girl.

The Girl Scout program covers every phase of life at some time or other, the instructor said.

One of the difficulties in that they must always pursue the program without regard for the interests of the group.

is not to see that girls pass tests but that they have a satisfying ex-
